LABOR-SAVING DEVICES AT LIBRARY CONVENTION

Sixty-three Manufacturers Will Ex-hibit Mechanical Apparatus May 25-29.

CLERKS TO BE IN ATTENDANCE

The most extensive exhibition of laborsaving devices for use in libraries and in large business offices ever seen in Washington, will be held during the convention of the American Library Association in this city, May 25-25.

Sixty-three large manufacturers of mechanical labor-saving apparetus will show their products at the local public library during the assistions of the convention. The exhibition bids fair to prove one of the most interesting features in connection with the convention.

Opportunity for the United States government to take advantage of the exhibit has been made through the invitation of the committee to the chief clerks of all governmental divisions, to attend or to designate properly informed representatives of their offices to be present.

On Monday, May 25, the exhibit will be open from 2 until 10 o'clock; Tuesday and Wednesday the hours will be from 10 o'clock until 6 o'clock, and Thursday, 10 s. m., to 10 p. m. The exhibit will be closed Friday evening at 6 e'clock.

"A great deal can be gained in know-closed Friday evening at 6 clock.

"A great deal can be gained in knowledge of new devices and suggestions of new ideas, which may help to lower the cost and increase the efficiency of library administration," says the advance announcement of the committee. An ela-borated catalogue has been compiled and will be issued to delegates to the conven-
